Pentagon EMS Adds New Website Feature

Beaverton, OR (January 10, 2006) – Pentagon EMS Corporation has added an interesting new feature called “The Pentagon Spotlight”, to their company website, located at www.pentagon-ems.com.

The new section highlights and details new products and features as well as some in-depth looks at special PCB assembly tooling applications. From the company home page, users can click the “Spotlight On” link in the upper left-hand corner, or it is directly available at www.pentagon-ems.com/spotlight.html. An archive of previous Spotlights is also available.

“This just gives our visitors a chance to see the variety of tooling-related things that other people are doing to enhance their assembly operations. We hope our website users will see some things they hadn’t thought of, and find it to be helpful.” , says Randy Morrison, Pentagon’s Marketing Manager.
